Biography

Terry Young (b.1978, Pittsburgh) is an artist. Years active: 1996? - 2010. He studied studio art at Carnegie Mellon University (Pittsburgh); Central St. Martins College of Art and Design (London); later pursuing a Masters degree in Fine Art at Goldsmiths College, University of London. At Carnegie Mellon University Young studied Art Theory under Professor Steve Kurtz. It was at Goldsmiths College that his work attracted the attention of British artist Mark Leckey (Turner Prize, 2008).

"Terry Young is a printmaker. He works with information and text and is interested in how text becomes a dynamic part of the visual environment as communication technologies evolve." (Sacasa-Mager, Natalia & Young, Terry. from "The New Art Dealer's Alliance Emerging Artist Page." The L Magazine 14 - 27 February 2007: 76-77.)
